A BEAUTIFUL SONG by JOHN IRELAND.

SEA FEVER

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by;
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a grey mist on the sea's face, and a grey dawn breaking.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied;
And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying,
And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the sea-gulls crying.

I must go down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life,
To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;
And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover,
And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

To look for thee—cry for thee—sigh for thee,
Under my breath,
To clasp but a shade
Where thy head hath been laid
It is death.

To long for thee, yearn for thee, burn for thee,
Sorrow and strife,
But to have thee, to have thee,
And hold thee and fold thee,
It is life.

Also with Orchestral Accompaniment.

ENGLISH SONGS

The growing appreciation of the works of this genius is rapidly securing for his Vocal Compositions the reputation they deserve with the public, singers and teachers. It is now recognized that among British composers whose vocal works are of real merit and have permanent value, those of Coleridge-Taylor are in the front rank, while their striking individuality and atmosphere appeal to an ever-widening audience.
